

*ECONOMICS WITH POLITICS AND PHILOSOPHY UNIVERSITY PREPARATION

PROGRAMME 2019

30th June – 12th July 2019

An inspirational summer programme, featuring world-class lecturers in economics, politics and philosophy; focusing on economics

Preparing to apply to university can be a daunting time. There are so many options available to you, and trying to gather all the information you need to make these decisions can be overwhelming. Which course is right for me? Which university is right for me? Where will I achieve my full potential and be happy and content at the same time? What could my future career look like?

To help with these choices, we encourage you to apply for Concord College's Economics with Politics and Philosophy Preparation Programme, run by visiting lecturers, professors and academics from UK universities who will be able to answer many of your questions. These courses will be intensive and academically challenging, and will offer a unique opportunity to gain insight into the courses of study you want to pursue at university.

The speakers from 2018 include the names below; the 2019 programme will be similar.

Associate Professor Anita Avramides, Southover Manor Trust Fellow and Tutor in Philosophy, St Hilda's College, University of Oxford
